Description

The REED R6015 is a pin-type wood moisture meter that measures moisture content across roughly 170 wood species using two integrated probe pins or an optional remote electrode. It offers a measuring range of 6-99.9% moisture content with automatic temperature compensation and a built-in 2-point calibration check for accuracy. The unit runs on two AAA batteries and ships with a temperature probe, protective cap, spare pins, and a carrying case.
